Medicare Utilization

Medicare's Usual Maximum Quantity for Urological Supplies

The quantity of urological supplies needed by a patient is determined by many factors. There will be variation according to individual need and their needs may vary over time. The table below lists the maximum number of items / units of service that are usually medically necessary. The actual quantity needed for a particular patient may be more or less than the amount listed. The medical necessity for use of a greater quantity of supplies than the amounts listed must be clearly documented in the patient's medical record.

For Your Information

- ▶ Fecal collectors should be initiated at the first evidence of diarrhea and fecal incontinence—before the perianal skin is damaged.
- ▶ Fecal collectors provide benefits for patients who are immobile, receiving antibiotics, receiving tube feedings, have Clostridium difficile, or are experiencing G.I. bleeding.

Risks Associated with Rectal Tubes:

- ▶ Potential damage to sphincter
- ▶ Potential perforation or necrosis
- ▶ Contraindicated for patients with bleeding disorders or rectal pathology
- ▶ Only indicated for short-term use
- ▶ May leak causing skin irritation, odor, increased caregiver time
