We transfer your personal data to these recipients for the legitimate interests of Hollister (pursuant to Art. 6 (1) (f) GDPR) to facilitate global operations in connection with the systems and services that the Hollister group of companies share, such as access to network servers, IT systems, and interdepartmental staff. They may not otherwise process or share your personal data, except as permitted by law.
- (iii) Governmental authorities, courts, external advisors, and similar third parties as required or permitted by applicable law if we have reason to believe that disclosing personal data is necessary to identify, contact, or bring legal action against someone who may be causing fraud or injury to or interference with (either intentionally or unintentionally) our rights or property, other Website users or anyone else who could be harmed by such activities. We also disclose personal data in response to a subpoena, warrant or other court or administrative order, or when we believe in good faith that a law, regulation, subpoena, warrant or other court or administrative order requires – or authorizes us to do so – or to respond to an emergency situation. The legal basis for such data transfers are our legitimate interests identified above (pursuant to Art. 6 (1) (f) GDPR) and to comply with legal obligations (pursuant to Art. 6 (1) (c) GDPR).

In all cases, we limit the personal data which is provided to these third parties to only that which is necessary and as otherwise restricted by application of the GDPR and other relevant local law.

Some of the recipients of your personal data will be located or have relevant operations outside of your country and the EEA, where the data protection laws may provide a different level of protection compared to the laws in your jurisdiction and with regard to which an adequacy decision by the European Commission does not exist. By way of entering into appropriate data transfer agreements based on Standard Contractual Clauses (2010/87/EU and/or 2004/915/EC) as referred to in Art. 46 (5) GDPR or other adequate means, which may be requested via the contact details below, we will implement appropriate measures to ensure that all other recipients located outside the EEA will provide an adequate level of data protection and that appropriate technical and organizational security measures are in place to protect your personal data against accidental or unlawful destruction, accidental loss or alteration, unauthorized disclosure or access, and against all other unlawful forms of processing.

4. Data Retention

Your personal data is stored by Hollister and/or our service providers to the extent necessary for the performance of our obligations and for the time necessary to achieve the purposes for which the personal data is collected, in accordance with applicable data protection laws and our robust internal data retention schedules. When Hollister no longer needs to process your personal data, we will delete it from our systems and/or records and/or take steps to properly anonymize it so that you can no longer be identified from it, unless we need to keep your personal data to comply with legal or regulatory obligations to which Hollister is subject.
